

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

SHIGE TAKIGUCHI, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

vs.

MRI INTERNATIONAL, INC., et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:13-cv-1183-JAD-VCF

ORDER

This matter involves a class action securities fraud lawsuit governed by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, 15 U.S.C. § 77a, et seq. Before the court is Plaintiffs Emergency Motion to Compel (#213). Defendants opposed (#215–#217). On January 14, 2015, the court held a hearing. For the reasons stated below, Plaintiffs Motion to Compel is denied and Defendants are jointly and severally sanctioned in the amount of $1,500.00, to be paid at the conclusion of this case.

DISCUSSION

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, 15 U.S.C. § 77a, et seq. (“the PSLRA” or “the Act”) was passed to restrict perceived abuses in securities class-action litigation by testing the sufficiency of a plaintiff’s complaint before discovery begins. SG Gowen Sec. v. U.S. Dist. Court for the N. Dist. Of Cal., 189 F.3d 909, 911–13 (9th Cir. 1999) (citing In re Advanta Corp. Sec. Litig., 180 F.3d 525, 530–31 (3d Cir. 1999)). The Act effectuates this policy by departing from the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in two significant ways.

First, the PSLRA requires plaintiffs to satisfy a heightened pleading standard that is more stringent than Rule 8(a) or Rule 9(b)’s pleading requirements. See 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b); see also WRIGHT &

1 MILLER, FEDERAL PRACTICE & PROCEDURE: CIVIL 3d § 2046.2. The heightened-pleading standard's
2 purpose is to curb strike suits by “ward[ing] off allegations of ‘fraud by hindsight.’” Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor
3 Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 320 (2007) (citations omitted).

4 Second, the PSLRA departs from the discovery procedures outlined in Rule 26 by permitting “only
5 after the court has sustained the legal sufficiency of the complaint.” SG Cowen Sec. 189 F.3d at 913 (citing
6 S. Rep. No. 104–98 at 14 (1995)). The PSLRA’s automatic stay of discovery takes effect “during the
7 pendency of any motion to dismiss.” 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(3)(B); see also WRIGHT & MILLER, supra at §
8 2046.2 (stating that the stay may apply even if the defendant has not yet moved to dismiss) (citation 9 omitted).

10 However, the PSLRA’s discovery stay is not absolute. The Act provides that “all discovery and
11 other proceedings shall be stayed during the pendency of any motion to dismiss, unless the court finds
12 upon the motion of any party that particularized discovery is necessary to preserve evidence or to prevent
13 undue prejudice to that party.” 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(3)(B).

14 The applicability of these provisions are in controversy here. On January 8, 2015, Defendant
15 Suzuki filed a Motion to Dismiss, arguing that the District of Nevada is a forum non conveniens. (Def.’s 16 Mot. to Dismiss (#209) at 7). In response, Plaintiffs filed the instant Emergency Motion to Compel, which
17 contends that (1) the Act’s automatic discovery stay did not take effect because the forum-non-conveniens
18 issue does not implicate the sufficiency of Plaintiffs’ security fraud claims, which the stay was designed 19 to test, or (2) an exception to the Act’s automatic discovery stay applies here. (See generally Mot. to 20 Compel (#213) at 5:22–26, 6:11–14).

21 As discussed during the hearing January 14, 2015 hearing, the court is unpersuaded by Plaintiffs’
22 first argument. The statute’s plain language is clear: the PSLRA’s discovery stay takes effect “during the 23 pendency of any motion to dismiss.” 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(3)(B). The case law is similarly clear: a
24

1 plaintiff cannot satisfy the PSLRA's heightened pleading standard by neutralizing the PSLRA's policy
2 concerns. (See Order #130 at 12:7–8) (citing Fosbre v. Las Vegas Sands Corp., No. 10–cv–0765, 2012
3 WL 5879783, at *3 (D. Nev. Nov. 20, 2012)). This, however, is the essence of Plaintiffs' argument.
4 (See Pl.'s Mot. to Compel (#213) at 6:10–11) (“This latest motion to dismiss filed by the defendants does
5 not implicate the purposes underlying the PSLRA discovery stay.”).

6 The court is similarly unpersuaded by Plaintiffs' argument that an exception to the Act's discovery
7 stay applies. Under the PSLRA, the party seeking discovery bears the burden of demonstrating that the
8 discovery sought is particularized and that the stay will cause undue prejudice or risk the destruction of
9 evidence. WRIGHT & MILLER, supra at § 2046.2. A discovery request is “particularized” if it seeks a
10 “clearly defined universe of documents” and other information. In re WorldCom, Inc. Sec. Litig., 234 F.
11 Supp. 2d 301, 306 (S.D.N.Y. 2002). “Undue prejudice” means “improper or unfair detriment,” which is 12 less than “irreparable harm.” Med. Imaging Ctrs. of Am., Inc. v. Lichtenstein, 917 F. Supp. 717, 720 (S.D.
13 Cal. 1996).

15 Plaintiffs carried their burden with regard to the first prong of this inquiry, but not the second. That
16 is, the discovery Plaintiffs seek is particularized (viz., two depositions); but the prejudice is not undue.
17 The only prejudice Plaintiffs articulated was the cost of airfare from Japan to Las Vegas, Nevada and
18 scheduling complications that will arise with depositions to be noticed for March at the United States
19 Embassy in Japan. These complications are not trivial, but they are not an “improper or unfair detriment.”
20 They are, rather, exemplary of the costs and inconveniences associated with litigation.

21 This, however, does not end the court's inquiry. Although the PSLRA displaces Rule 8 and Rule
22 9(b)'s pleading requirements as well as the timing of discovery under Rule 26(d), the Act does not abrogate
23 the parties' other discovery rights, duties, and potential liabilities. A federal court has both express power
24 under Rules 26 and 37 and inherent power to impose sanctions for conduct arising during discovery.
25

1 Chambers v. NASCO, 501 U.S. 32, 47 (1991). Accordingly, although Plaintiffs failed to show “improper
2 or unfair detriment” under the PSLRA, the court finds that Plaintiffs demonstrated “good cause” to issue
3 an order to protect Plaintiffs “from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense.”
4 See FED. R. CIV. P. 26(c)(1). Specifically, Defendants either knew or should have known that Japanese
5 Counsel would travel from Japan to Las Vegas, Nevada to attend the depositions and incur undue airfare
6 expenses.

7 Defendant Suzuki contends he either did not know or should not have expected that Japanese
8 Counsel would travel from Japan to Las Vegas, Nevada for two reasons. He asserted, first, that he did not
9 know Japanese Counsel was involved in the action and, second, thought that the noticed depositions were
10 “run of the mill” depositions. Similarly, Defendant Suzuki also asserted that he did not have actual notice
11 of Japanese Counsel’s travel plans, like Defendants MRI International, Inc. and Sterling Escrow.

12 These arguments are not credible. This matter involves a massive Ponzi scheme, which allegedly
13 defrauded billions of dollars from Japanese investors, many of whom lost their life’s savings. Japanese
14 Counsel had already attended previous depositions in this matter. Similarly, these were not “run of the 15 mill” depositions. One of the primary Defendants (i.e., MRI International, among others) was scheduled
16 to be deposed. Therefore, the court sanctions Defendants jointly and severally in the amount of $1,500.00,
17 to be paid at the end of this matter. This amount represents the reasonable discounted cost of airfare
18 incurred by Japanese Counsel, as stated during the court’s hearing.

19
20 ACCORDINGLY, and for good cause shown,

21 IT IS ORDERED that Plaintiffs Emergency Motion to Compel (#213) is DENIED.

22 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendants are jointly and severally sanctioned in the amount
23 of $1,500.00, to be paid at the end of this matter.

1 IT IS SO ORDERED.
